Cyclists on 'Tour of California' to race through city

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger

One of the professional bicycle racing world's bigger events will spin through West Sacramento on Tuesday – providing street closures as well as spectator opportunity.

The "Amgen Tour of California" will enter West Sacramento from the north, sometime in the early afternoon. Riders will come down the "river road" along the Sacramento River, taking North Harbor Boulevard south to Sunset, connecting to Sacramento Avenue and going east, then turning south on Jefferson and east again on West Capitol Avenue before crossing the Tower Bridge. The visit is part of the 116-mile second stage of the tour, connecting Santa Rosa to the stage finish in Sacramento.

It's the second year for the race, which draws top riders including the Discovery Channel team, seven other Union Cycliste International teams, seven other U.S. teams and the Mexican national team, according to Art Schroeder of the City of West Sacramento. Schroeder also warned that motorists should avoid the course in the early afternoon on Feb. 20, and spectators should find off-street parking prior to 1:45 p.m. if they wish to watch the race.

Spectators need to stay off the street and off the medians to avoid endangering the riders.

Road closures along the course are expected between 1:45 and 2:45 p,m.

The race changes its course each year and this is its first visit to West Sacramento and the capital area. The seven-stage race course this year also includes cities such as Sausalito, Stockton, San Jose and San Luis Obispo. Racing begins on February 18, and ends with a circuit race in Long Beach on Feb. 25.

For more race information, visit www.amgen-tourofcalifornia.com.

Under 18? Can't be out after 10 p.m.

Changes to curfew:

The West Sacramento City Council on Wednesday will be asked to re-write a local ordinance that imposes a curfew on minors from 10 p.m. to sunrise in the city. The changes were instigated after the Yolo County District Attorney's office asked the city to review its laws, said a staff report by Assistant City Manager Carol Richardson. The D.A.'s office suggested the review in response to a recent court ruling that cast doubt on "vague" language in some curfew law.

The changes will replace language making it illegal to "loiter, idle, wander, stroll or play" in public areas with other language simply stating that it is unlawful for a minor to "remain" in a public place or establishment during curfew hours.

The new curfew language continues to allow exceptions. It will still be allowable for someone under 18 to be in a public place between 10 p.m. and sunrise, for example, if the youth is accompanied by an adult, or traveling in a motor vehicle, or traveling to or from a job, or traveling to or from an activity sponsored by a school, church or other organization that "takes responsibility for the minor," the law allows.

Someone under 18 who is "exercising First Amendment rights" such as the exercise of religion, free speech or assembly is also exempt from the curfew.

A minor in violation of the curfew is deemed to be committing a misdemeanor.

The proposed changes will be part of tonight's council meeting, which begins in open session at 7 p.m. at city hall.

ANGEL CARDENAS with a cameraman at the station's helicopter

A decade after graduating from River City High School, Angel Cardenas is flying pretty high. He works now as a traffic reporter for News 10 in Sacramento – a job that includes airborne reporting from the station's "Air10" helicopter.

"If you had asked me two years ago what I'd be doing now, the last thing I'd predict is a traffic reporter," said Cardenas, 30.

The journey into television news pretty much started at River City High, he recalled.

"I ran track and played baseball, but I just loved football, which I'd played since I was a young kid. It was the sport I was most successful in. My first year at River City, I got pulled up to varsity to play in the playoffs. Coach Rod Massie (past football coach at the school) was extremely supportive, constantly pushing me to do better and saying that by excelling in sports and in the classroom, this could be my ticket to college. (Coach) Chris Baker and counselor Dawn Leventon (now Dawn Grovehaus) were supportive as well. She really helped me in terms of telling me, 'these are the college requirements you have to take.' I had no idea. I don't know if it has changed, but at the time, if you didn't take the initiative as a student at River City High School, they weren't going to come and hold your hand."

Cardenas did excel at sports and at school in West Sacramento, and it paid off.

"I was the first in my family to go to college, on both my mother's side and my dad's side," he remembers. "Although my parents knew college was important, it wasn't really stressed. If you graduated from high school, that was great. But I kind of wanted to go to college to have more success in life, as well as to keep playing football. Now, I have cousins in college, and I think I kind of led the way."

Cardenas did keep playing football – while attending school on a partial athletic scholarship at St. Mary's College. He earned a degree in communications.

"I was planning to work in TV and media," he said. "But when I graduated, I didn't find any openings. My first job 'out the gate' was back in Sacramento at Hertz Rental Cars."

Shortly afterwards, though, in 2001, Cardenas got his "foot in the door" at Channel 10.

"I was hired here at News 10, and was doing behind-the-scenes stuff," he recalled. "I was a camera operator, floor director and ran the teleprompter."

What's a "floor director"?

"You have your 'anchor' out there, and you let them know which camera is on, or you're giving them new script if there is news breaking, and you pass along messages that the producer wants passed along. The producer is in a different room."

Now, Cardenas is one of the station's two main traffic reporters, along with Melissa Crowley.

"Melissa Crowley is the traffic reporter in the morning in the studio," he explains. "I'm her sidekick in the morning, in the helicopter. She'll say, 'let's go to Angel Cardenas in the helicopter and see what he's reporting.' I come back for the evening news, and then I'm in the studio reporting."

During the afternoons, Cardenas assembles the station's traffic report for its internet site, using information from the California Highway Patrol website. He also finds time to work out and to play with his new dog, a Jack Russell terrier-mix named "Joe Montana."

Cardenas is unmarried – but with a girlfriend – and lives in Sacramento's Pocket area.

Where does he hope to be in another 10 or 15 years?

"Long term, I'd really like to have my own show," Cardenas responded. "Like Oprah or Ellen DeGeneris or Montel – I'd like to have the Angel Cardenas show!"

Cardenas doesn't want to be a stranger to his hometown. On Feb. 27. he'll be special guest at the "West Sacramento Friends of the Library" dinner (call 371-4877 for information). And he invites people to contact him at News 10 if they need him to appear for other local "good causes."

"Something I really like to do is give back – I love volunteering at schools, for example," Cardenas commented.

Suspected marijuana 'grow' busted

■ Southport home & warehouse tied to ring of alleged cultivators in Oakland: six arrested

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger

A surveillance watch on a southern West Sacramento property has led to the arrests of six Bay Area people suspected in participating in a large marijuana-growing operation. Locally, the investigation began with a citizen's tip regarding a house and warehouse on one acre at 3515 Jefferson Boulevard in Southport.

"We had a tip from some concerned citizens who had a little bit of suspicion on a location, and we started some surveillance," said Commander Ray Giorgi of the Yolo Narcotics Enforcement Team (YONET). "For about three or four months, we did some surveillance at that location. There were four subjects involved, as we focused on the warehouse on the property. In the course of the investigation, we determined there was a 'marijuana grow.'"

The investigators watched who visited the property, and where they went afterwards.

"Almost every surveillance operation took us to the city of Oakland and to two houses where we believed the subjects were living. One, we believe, was a marijuana grow."

The original tips had to do with unusual behavior from the homeowners – visiting the property only every few days, keeping the blinds down, not taking out their garbage out, said Giorgi.

Last Wednesday morning, the task force served search warrants and arrest warrants on a number of suspects and several locations, including the Jefferson Boulevard property and several homes in Oakland.

About 200 marijuana plants were found at the Southport site. The plants were also found at two Oakland houses – one of which, said Giorgi, "had been totally converted to a marijuana grow, and every room had marijuana growing at various stages. And at another location, we had about 500 plants."

The West Sacramento site may have been home to more plants than investigators found.

Farmers in Yolo may be eligible for help, after freeze

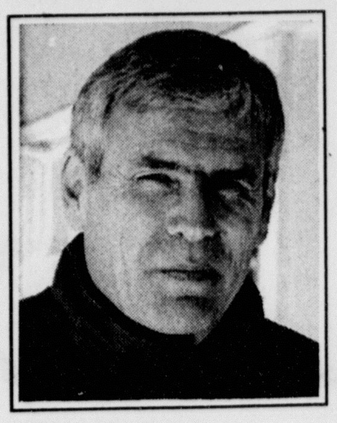
Yolo County is one of 18 counties in California designated as a "natural disaster area" by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The designation is a response to the freezing temperatures of January 6-19, which damaged crops.

Farmers who lost at least 30 percent of a normal crop due to the freeze, and who meet other conditions, are eligible for assistance. They may contact a local USDA service center or www.fsa.usda.gov for information.

In addition to the California counties, three in Arizona and two in Nevada were also declared disaster areas.

Thoughts on Valentine's Day

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

As has often been noted by people who are interested in such things, Valentine's Day can be a very depressing time if you happen to be one of the millions who do not have a spouse or significant other in your life. So I was actually a little interested when a press release recently came across my desk suggesting ways to successfully deal with all the love hoopla that goes along with Valentine's Day, especially for those who are more or less alone (relationship-wise) in this big lonely world on February 14th.

Apparently there are any number of things the unloved can do to keep their perspective and sanity on Valentine's Day, including some of the following:

(1) Be your own valentine and celebrate the wonderful person you are. Make an appointment to have a massage or pedicure on Valentine's Day or make plans with a friend to dine at a gourmet restaurant.

(2) Leave work early and do something fun such as going to a movie in the middle of the afternoon.

(3) Commit to being okay with yourself no matter what is happening in your love life.

(4) Accept the uncertainty in your love life and see it as an opportunity to flex your faith-in-yourself muscles.

(5) Practice having fun, even when you're feeling miserable.

(6) Expand your Valentine's Day support circle and make future plans to take a night class at college, or join a local hiking group or community chorus, or commit yourself to doing more volunteer work.

Well, I have to admit that all of the above suggestions make a lot of sense if one is feeling a tad unloved on Valentine's Day. But before going completely overboard on the idea, I think it's important to step back a bit and look at the flip side of the coin. I mean, having a spouse or significant other in your life on Valentine's Day is not exactly a Sunday stroll in the park, especially if you are a male.

For instance, if a guy is married, engaged, living with someone, going steady, or just beginning a relationship, he immediately (and forever) has the responsibility of somehow remembering Valentine's Day, which is not an easy task! It's not as if it is Christmas Eve, or a birthday, or one of those other times of the year like Super Bowl Sunday which really stand out and can be easily remembered. I mean, February is basically a forgotten little month to begin with and that is probably why they tried to pump it up a bit by giving it Valentine's Day. So although it may be true that the unloved may have to be a little lonely on February 14th, they at least don't have to face the wrath of God should they accidentally forget all about the darn thing.

Second, a guy has to come up with a brand new gift idea, and this is only six weeks or so after having used up his "A" gift idea at Christmas time. And I even once knew this poor soul who had been cursed with the dreaded "trifecta". His wife was born right after the first of the year, so he had to somehow come up with a great Christmas present in December, almost immediately followed by another great birthday present in January, followed of course by the perfect Valentine's Day gift in February. I mean, when winter rolled around every year you should have seen this poor fellow -- he knew the gift-gauntlet awaited him and he looked like one of those poor sad-eyed cows being led off to the slaughterhouse.

Third, in addition to finding the perfect gift, it is more or less expected that a guy also produce a box of candy and some flowers come Valentine's Day. Well, to begin with, when you hand a woman a box of candy nowadays, they will smile at you like you have really done good, but under their breath they are actually saying, "Oh, great, that's all I need -- a big box of candy sitting around the house. Doesn't he have a clue? Doesn't he know that I will probably end up eating each and every darn one of them and that I will now have to double my exercise routine just to keep from gaining another five pounds on top of the ten I'm already trying to lose from the holidays?"

And the reason for giving cut flowers to one's beloved on Valentine's Day (other than the profit motive of florists everywhere) has always gone over my head. I mean, the darn things cost a small fortune (over a $100 for a dozen roses) and if you just give her a 1/2 dozen or less (that romantic single rose thing only works once by the way), you are secretly considered cheap. Plus what is so darn romantic about giving someone something that is dead, even if they are on life support for a few days in a pretty vase?

So, although my heart goes out to all those who may find themselves unloved and lonely today, I would just like to remind them (especially the guys) that Valentine's Day cuts both ways, and that they will at least not have to experience the "long polar frost of indifference" should they screw things up.

they might have harvested another 'grow,'" Giorgi commented. "From the pots, the soil, and the plants, you could see that they had harvested."

The Davis/West Sacramento police SWAT team served the search warrant on the West Sacramento locale, which was uninhabited. Meanwhile, six arrests were made at search warrant locations and at the place of employment of some of the suspects, mostly in Oakland. Five men and one woman were arrested and held on $1 million bail in Yolo County Jail. All four of the suspects named in the arrest warrants were among the six.

Now, the U.S. Attorney's office in Sacramento is planning to handle the prosecution.

Why is it a federal case?

"They looked at the totality of it, the number of plants, and the situation – we had one 'grow' close to a school in Oakland. And (the federal government) has a little stricter sentencing guidelines."

Giorgi said the case indicates what can happen when citizens provide law enforcement tips.

"We encourage the public to notify law enforcement – that's where most investigations here in California originate from. Tips come from concerned neighbors, concerned citizens who give us the slightest information, without knowing that we may have been receiving other information."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• You might be surprised to learn that the United States Postal Service once actually delivered children as well as letters. In 1914, a 2-year-old boy was sent from Oklahoma to Kansas — and the postage paid was only 18 cents.

• One C. Merton Tyrell once described the Pentagon as "a place where costs are always rounded to the nearest tenth of a billion dollars."

• When he died in April 1910, an 80-year-old man named Valentine Tapley had the distinction of possessing the longest beard in the world. He was afraid that after his death someone would turn grave-robber in order to steal the 12 1/2 feet of whiskers, so in his will he specified that his body be sealed up in an especially sturdy tomb to prevent such a desecration of his corpse.

• Those who study such things claim that a sneeze was once recorded as traveling 103.6 mph.

• You might not remember this, but a microwave oven was actually commercially available as early as the 1940s. As you might imagine, however, it wasn't terribly practical — it was 6 feet tall and weighed 750 pounds.

CONSENT AGENDA

1. Sprint-Nextel Proposed Wireless Facility at 750 IKEA Court (ZA 06-36) (HAMILTON)

The applicant requests approval of a minor conditional use permit to install six (6) telecommunications antennae inside the Riverpoint Marketplace freeway multi-tenant sign structure and construct a small accessory structure to house support equipment at the base of the sign. The site is located at 750 IKEA Court, adjacent to Interstate 80 (APN 014-793-06). The property is zoned C-2/PD-45, Community Commercial PD-45. This project is Categorically Exempt from the California Environmental Quality Act (CEQA) pursuant to §15303 (New Construction or Conversion of Small Structures) of the CEQA Guidelines. APPLICANT: Parsons Corporation (Attn: Audrey Smith), 185 Berry Street, Suite 5300, San Francisco, CA 94107. OWNER: Marvin L. Oates and Frank C. Ramos, et al, c/o 1450 Harbor Boulevard, Suite C, West Sacramento, CA 95691.

REGULAR AGENDA

2. Public Workshop on River Park General Plan Amendment, Framework Plan Amendment, Rezoning, Large Lot Tentative Map, and Planned Development (GPA 04-01) (TILLEY)

This item is a public workshop on the proposed River Park master plan project in the southeast village of Southport. The master plan area is generally located south of Davis Road and east of the former Yolo Shortline railroad tracks. The ±495 acre master plan area is currently planned for residential development ranging from low to high densities, neighborhood commercial, WRC, elementary school, open space, and parkland uses. The Project would amend the current land use designations to support development of approximately 2,788 residential units (including rural residential, low-, medium-, and high-density residential areas), a ±40-acre regional park, and community open-space areas. The Project would represent an increase of approximately 900 residential units compared to what was considered by the Southport Framework Plan EIR. Requested entitlements include a General Plan amendment, rezoning, planned development standards, large lot tentative map, and a development agreement. A possible marina at the site of the former Four Seasons marina is also being considered on a programmatic basis. An EIR has been prepared and circulated and the Final EIR is currently being prepared.

The purpose of the workshop is to discuss the specifics of the project including open space areas, recreational elements, housing densities, circulation, and other project-specific elements. APPLICANT/ OWNER: Richland Planned Communities, 2220 Douglas Boulevard, Suite 290, Roseville, CA 95670.

Steve Rikala, Secretary
West Sacramento Planning Commission

POLICE LOG

Editor's note: The West Sacramento Police Department has ceased making available to the media records of incidents such as burglaries, arson fires, car thefts and other occurrences that don't necessarily result in an arrest. The News-Ledger has requested expanded access to this kind of information once again, as entitled by law.

Feb. 9, 12:40 a.m.

A 47-year old Sacramento man was spotted driving over 80 miles per hour in a 45 mile per hour zone in West Sacramento. Using lights and siren, an officer tried to pull him over, but the subject fled onto the freeway and was pursued for two miles onto the Yolo Causeway before yielding. The driver was arrested. He had a suspended license, and was also charged with transporting a "parolee at large." The passenger/parolee, a Rio Linda man, was also taken into custody.

Feb. 9, 2:11 a.m.

Near Jefferson Blvd. and Linden Road, and officer stopped a Southport man who ran a red light in his car. The driver appeared intoxicated. "When he exited the vehicle, he nearly fell over," wrote the arresting officer, adding that the driver also failed a field sobriety test.

Feb. 9, 8:46 p.m.

Near Jefferson and Webster Street, an officer stopped a 64-year old Carmichael woman who had made an unsafe lane change. She appeared drunk and failed a field sobriety test. She was cited and released (presumably not to drive).

Feb. 10, 3:22 a.m.

An officer contacted a 45-year old north area man in the rear of a Water Street address. The man was arrested for being too intoxicated to care for himself. A 33-year old neighbor in a front yard was arrested for the same reason.

Feb. 10, 6:08 p.m.

A 36-year male transient was identified and arrested as the suspect in the January 27 burglary of a West Sacramento market.

Feb. 10, 11:07 p.m.

Near Jefferson Blvd. and Vermont St., an officer stopped a 43-year old West Sacramento man for driving erratically and having a cracked windshield on his Chevrolet Suburban. The man appeared intoxicated. While trying to perform a part of a field sobriety test that involved walking through a "U-turn" on foot, "he nearly fell while walking and backed up rather than turn around," wrote the officer. The man was arrested.

Feb. 11, 12:43 a.m.

Officers responding to a report of "suspicious circumstances" near Kegle and Joan Street found a 28-year old Sacramento man sleeping in a Mazda sedan. The subject was holding a folded dollar bill with a white powder inside that later tested as 1.1 grams of cocaine. He was arrested.

Feb. 11, 4:09 a.m.

A 31-year old Galt man fled the scene after crashing his 1993 Accord near Marshall Road and Seymour Avenue. He was found in a nearby backyard. The car was registered to the suspect's cousin, and the suspect was a parolee out of Sacramento. He was arrested.

Feb. 11, 6:20 p.m.

On the 3200-block of West Capitol, police talked to a 63-year old male transient too drunk to give his own name and address. The man was booked.

Feb. 12, 12:35 a.m.

An officer used an "arm bar takedown" to arrest a 39-year old West Sacramento man who appeared drunk and was causing a disturbance along the 1200-block of Sacramento Avenue.

RECEPTION TO BE TENDERED RETURNED HEROES IS IN COURSE OF FORMATION

THREE CIVIC ASSOCIATIONS OF WASHINGTON INTEND TO MAKE AFFAIR OF BROAD CHARACTER

At a meeting of the committee appointed by three Civic Associations of Washington last Monday night in the public school building it was partially decided that the reception would be of a public character in which all the people of the town might participate.

It is eivdent that the committees have in mind something very big, something out of the ordinary, something that will show the boys who went to the front that their services were appreciated to the fullest extent by the people of the town.

On account of the fact that the proportion of volunteers out of Washington in comparison with the population has no equal, so far as is known, the committees in charge decided that all the people of the town should be given an opportunity to voice their approval of the young mens' action on this occasion.

Only tentative plans were framed for the reception. Funds must be collected in order that it may be of such magnitude as will be befitting to the occasion, and the raising of those funds was the problem before the meeting.

Another meeting is to be held at the call of the chair, and that in the near future, for further discussion of the subject. Prof. J. L. Case is chairman of the General Committee.

Three of the volunteers, Frank Buckingham, Tommie Eddy and J. Casselman, are yet to return from service and as they are expected home soon, it is probable that the reception will not be held until they arrive.

BOY KILLED ON BRIDGE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Saturday morning about 10 a. m. Daniel Treloar, seven-eyar-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Treloar of Sacramento, was killed on the draw section of the S. P. bridge when he was struck by an auto driven by L. Borach of Woodland.

The boy was struck by the fender of the machine and knocked toward the left side of the bridge, where he lay in a pool of blood. Dr. J. W. Crawford, who passed at the time of the accident, rushed the boy to the receiving hospital, but life had left the little body, however, before the hospital was reached.

Borach stopped his car immediately after the accident. Borach declared he was coming from the Washington side when the child, starting from the south side of the bridge, ran unexpectedly in front of the car, making the accident unavoidable. Mrs. Rosalie Borach and J. M. Clary, other occupants of the car substantiated Borach's story.

The campaign to raise the required funds will be pressed so that construction may begin at the earliest possible moment.

SOLDIER BOY HELD UP ON BRIDGE BY THUGS

Last Tuesday night three thugs held up and robbed Glen Barber on the Sacramento end of the S. P. bridge and robbed him of $25, even though he was dressed in his overseas uniform.

A companion escaped. Barber resisted and was badly beaten and stabbed in the breast. He was left bleeding on the bridge and suffering badly.

He was found by Patrolmen Wm. Kramer and Darwin.

Milos N. Gopcevic, a farmer of Lake County, is reported to be the heir to the throne of Montenegro.

Whether he is or not, he is better off growing grapes or tobacco or rice in Lake County than he would be a King in Montenegro.

Ohio, are stopping in Sacramento and are investigating land conditions in the valley, especially in Yolo County, where they have been greatly impressed with what they have seen.

Mrs. Celia Hart motored to San Francisco last Monday to visit for two weeks.

A fair crowd attended the dance given by the Parent-Teachers last Wednesday night in the public school. The music, which was furnished by a Sacramento orchestra, was good.

Last week The Independent announced the issuance of a marriage certificate in San Francisco to F. H. Skoybeda and Miss Eleanor Babroff, both of Riverbank. The wedding, however, was postponed and Miss Babroff became impatient. Twelve days later she appeared at the County Clerk's office in Sacramento with W. A. Kristoff of Alameda and asked for another certificate, explaining that Skoybeda was "too slow."

POPULACE PLANS NEW HOSPITAL FOR SISTERS

Following the announcement that the Sacramento Medical Society and the management of the Sisters' Hospital had joined forces for the building of a new general hospital building at a cost of $400,000, developments in the plan came rapidly.

Yesterday afternoon office equipment was installed in the large downstairs banquet room at the Sacramento Hotel, a force of typists and stenographers was engaged and work preparatory to the opening of an intensive campaign early in December was begun. This activity will be largely increased as the movement progresses.

While it is too early for the actual selection of the general campaign committee, the matter will be canvassed at a meeting to be held soon by a number of men and women interested in the hospital enterprise. The meeting will be held at the Sacramento Hotel.

The hospital question was discussed at length at the meeting of the medical society at the Sacramento Hotel last night.

Under the plans already worked out the government of the institution will be vested in the bishop, the mother superior, three representatives of the medical profession and a business manager, representative of the public at large. It is also provided that as soon as the hospital shall be made free of debt all surplus earnings shall go into a fund to be used exclusively for the improvement and betterment of the hospital itself.

The powerful interests that are backing the proposition for the building of this $400,000 hospital, in the opinion of those present at the meeting last night, are an absolute guarantee of the success of the campaign.

The prime movers in the philanthropic enterprise are the men comprising the medical committee of the Chamber of Commerce, who, of course, represent that body.

Under the plans agreed upon the medical and surgical departments of the hospital will be in the hands of the doctors. The future earnings of the hospital will go into a fund for the development of the hospital and for charitable work.

Letters to the Editor

All is not well

Please do not take the absence of letters to to the Editor [from me] to think that everything in West Sacramento and Washington Unified School District is running smoothly. We as taxpayers, parents and community members need to be even more diligent than before about what is going on in both our school district and community in general. This past week there was a meeting put on in regard to the status of our levees and the truth about how bad of shape they are really in. We as a community, need to all be fully informed on what reality is and not to be pacified in only knowing part of the truth so we don't panic.

Also, this past week, the WUSD school board meeting proved that regardless of the Grand Jury Report and Fiscal Crisis Management Audit Team (also known as the FCMAT) report last year, we have serious violations of various laws, unethical hiring practices and misuse of public funds that continue in our district. It would appear that decisions continue to be made behind closed doors regardless of the laws that protect the public's interest by not allowing this to happen. It is my feeling that the "Special Meeting" held on, January 17th, to "evaluate" the Superintendent, which was called by him, was used so that he could discuss things with the Board without interruption of the public. On numerous occasions the Superintendent and former interim Superintendent made the comment to me that "Board meetings are for the Board and not for the public."

I am in disagreement with this statement being that the Board meetings are our only way of putting things on record and addressing the entire Board. The Board's job is to represent the entire community and all the student's best interests, which makes them accountable to us. I do not know what went on behind closed doors but I do feel this forum was used in a way that violates open meeting laws. It would appear that after this meeting various issues moved forward without discussion in any open meeting forum. One example is the K-8 issue. It occurred to me that since the Board adopted the K-8 committee's recommendation last year, at what point did the Board give the Superintendent the direction to go against those recommendations and proceed to conduct community forums with the direction of implementing K-8 schools at every elementary school in our entire district and to not have Golden State Middle School?

The K-8 committee worked very hard and came back with a fair pilot project of three K-8 schools evenly dispersed throughout the district and maintaining the middle school to allow parents options. Changing the enrollment from 720 student campuses to 900 is also a huge concern to me. I certainly would not want my elementary student (especially one in kindergarten) on such a large campus. Where will we find the money for such a district wide project when we are already over budget by $4 million on the new elementary school and $50 million plus on the high school?

These are only a few concerns that have arisen and I beg you to get involved at both the City and School District. We as a community can't afford the mistakes and poor decisions being made.

Homosexual activism

Occasionally I will read a letter to the editor and will be stirred and quickened to respond to the point that I must write and so it is with my response to last week's letter from Miss De Koning regarding her opinion on gay marriage and support of the recent action undertaken by a Yolo County official (Freddie Oakley) handing out flyers to the public encouraging gay marriage (incidental to Valentine's Day) — which has yet to be determined to be in violation of state law. Clearly, homosexual activism has permeated our society to such an extent that we now have grandmothers advocating gay marriage!

Driving in Parkways and parking in driveways, so it is with gay marriage — an oxymoron. So much fabric of the traditional American values of previous generations has eroded it is sad to read that a grandmother advocates such an unholy union. Regarding whatever spiritual perspective Miss De Koning may be alluding to concerning God, there is no alternative to what God clearly established in the beginning that marriage (Ge 2:24) is sacred (to Him) and the man and woman become one flesh, by design, an almighty God's design, and anything other than God's design is not from God so leave God out of any make believe spiritual element in the oxymoron gay marriage. Clearly we are living in what the Bible refers to as the last days.

A cursory glance at Romans 1:28-32, as well as II Timothy 3:1-9, speak very clearly to what is becoming common place in mainstream culture values, if you can call them that. And once again the ignorant chide of separating law and religion — did you know Miss De Koning that on top of the Washington Monument (erected 1885) in Washington D.C. there is an inscription that reads Laus Deo? Facing the heavens, in praise of an almighty God, "Praise God". The Christian God, the only God, the one true God.

I have several homosexual co-workers, both men and women, and I treat them with the same respect as anyone else. But when a boundary is crossed, a personal boundary, please don't wave your sin in my face and appeal to my rationale or other false sense because at the end of the day, God reigns, will judge the righteous and the wicked and He has the final say both now and on the day of judgment, amen.

Drive less, for clean air

In January our Sacramento Area Council of Governments (SACOG) announced additional money would be available to improve public transit, freeways and the like with an apparent goal of improving traffic flow and (hopefully) air quality. Poor air quality does not help anyone, least of all those whose resistance levels are low. Cleaner burning fuel appears to be the main key, although using less (e.g., driving less) would help.

But improving public transit nowadays is not only about routing. More benches at non-bus stop locations (as in Woodland) are desirable, preferably the 2-person width, wide enough to re-tie one's shoes, but not wide enough to sleep on. West Sac also needs a homeless shelter which would provide such folks with nutrition, basic medical care, and a place of protection from the elements.

"Epic Movie"

Running time: 86 minutes
MPAA rating: PG-13

Even though we've got a whole lot of 2007 left, I'm going to go out on a limb and say that "Epic Movie" is the worst film of the year.

Jason Friedberg and Aaron Seltzer, the writers/directors of "Epic Movie," have already left in their professional wake a slime-trail of execrable spoof films like "Date Movie" and "Spy Hard." So, it's no surprise that "Epic Movie" wouldn't be any better than its predecessors. No, dear readers, Friedberg and Seltzer have managed to make a film so bad, it makes "Date Movie" look like "Pootie Tang."

The film follows the same formula as the rest of the "Movie" series: Spend a bunch of money to recreate the shots of popular Good Movies, then add bad gags involving bodily functions, groin kicks and PG-level profanity — Comedy Gold if your target audience is a 12-year-old boy.

The lion's share of "Epic Movie" is spent spoofing "The Chronicles of Narnia," and features performances by the brilliant Jennifer Coolidge and Fred Willard. But even their presence isn't enough to save this horrible movie.

To be honest, I had no intention of seeing "Epic Movie," but I am a huge Anna Faris fan and she's starred in every "Movie" installment since the first "Scary Movie," so I figured she'd be in this one. To my surprise, Anna is nowhere to be seen. She's been replaced by Jayma Mays, a Faris lookalike who doesn't quite have the comedic chops as her doppelganger.

My guess is that Anna smelled the script coming from a mile away and ran for the hills. You should do the same.

Play With Your Food
by Joost Elffers and Saxton Freyman
(Chronicle Books, $16.95)
Reviewed by Ealish Waddell

Is "Play With Your Food" the cutest book ever published? Well, that's definitely a tough race to call, but this little tome definitely belongs in the running.

"Play With Your Food" gathers together 300 of the most adorable, expressive photos from the oeuvre of artist Saxton Freyman and publisher Joost Elffers. Each one depicts fruits and vegetables like you've never seen them before.

In Freyman's hands, bananas become dolphins cavorting in a sea of snow peas or a giraffe stretching toward a dangling mint branch. Grinning apples and wrinkly peppers look on as strawberries pucker up for a kiss, and a sleepy orange accidentally swallows a blueberry fly.

Sometimes the addition of eyes or a mouth is all that is needed to bring personality out of a simple vegetable. Other times, judicious, minimal carving or joining is used to shape a fruit into an entirely different creature. A few scenes combine a variety of foods to create a landscape all its own — a school of bell-pepper angelfish gliding over a kale reef, or a gourd balloon drifting over a fantastic city adorned with real onion domes.

It all might seem a bit precious, but rather than just looking cutesy, these images are playful and inventive, bringing an involuntary answering smile to the reader's face. The amount of emotion Freyman manages to draw out of his inanimate subjects is enchanting. One little pouting tomato looks exactly like my 3-year-old niece when she doesn't get her way.

The only downside of this book is the disconcerting way you'll begin to look at your food. When my veggies start looking back at me with cute, silly grins on their faces, I might not have the heart to eat them!

Books reviewed in this column are available online or at your local bookstore.

Q. Back in the late 1950s/early '60s, there was a show on TV called "The Californians." One of the characters was Dion Patrick. Can you give me any information on the actor who played him? — Marilyn C., Oglesby, Ill.

A. "The Californians" was a Western set in San Francisco during the 1850s Gold Rush. It aired from 1957-59. Adam Kennedy played Dion Patrick. Kennedy was born in your home state of Indiana back in 1922, and passed away from a heart attack in October 1997. He was also a novelist, and he adapted his 1975 book "The Domino Principle" into a screenplay for the 1977 Stanley Kramer film of the same name.

Q. My friend told me that Jesse Spencer from "House" is dating one of his co-stars? Is it true? If so, which one? — Jamie S., Arcadia, Fla.

A. The Australian-born cutie-pie Jesse Spencer is not only dating his co-star, Jennifer Morrison ("Allison Cameron"), but they are engaged to be married. He proposed to her this past December while the two were vacationing in Paris.

Q. Did actresses Joan Fontaine and sister Olivia de Havilland ever mend their relationship? — H.F.W., Decatur, Ala.

A. By all reports, I'm sorry to say that they still are not on speaking terms. The sisters never really did get along, with their mother allegedly preferring Olivia to Joan.

The public rift reportedly came about in 1942, when Olivia won the Oscar for Best Actress and swept past Joan, who was waiting with extended hand to congratulate her (Joan had already won the best actress Oscar a few years earlier). In 1975, the sisters began not speaking at all, because according to Joan, Olivia had failed to tell her sister about their mother's memorial service when she passed away. Olivia claims that she did inform Joan, and that Joan merely brushed her off, stating that she was too busy.

Q. I loved the series "China Beach." Will it ever be released on DVD? — F.J., Fort Dodge, Iowa

A. I remember having heard a while back that there were plans to release the DVD. However, the music used for the series would cost a fortune in royalties, and it would also cost a pretty penny to go through and edit out all the music and add different songs. Like many shows of a certain era, the music of "China Beach" played a huge part in the story and setting, so to go without the original music would greatly take away from the show. You can find the VHS tape of the premiere episode online at Amazon.com and other auction sites.

MARIO'S BUCATINI WITH BACON AND TOMATO

- 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 12 ounces thinly sliced guanciale, pancetta or good bacon
- 1 red onion, cut lengthwise in half and then into 1/4-inch-thick half moons
- 3 cloves garlic, sliced
- 1 1/2 teaspoons hot red pepper flakes
- 2 cups Mario's basic tomato sauce (recipe follows)
- 1 pound Barilla bucatini pasta
- Freshly grated Pecorino Romano

Bring 6 quarts of water to boil in a large pot and add 2 teaspoons salt.

In a medium saute pan, combine the olive oil, guanciale, onion, garlic and red pepper flakes. Set over low heat until the onion is softened and the guanciale has rendered much of its fat, about 12 minutes. Drain all but 1/4 cup of the fat out of the pan. Add tomato sauce, turn up heat and bring to a boil. Then lower heat to a simmer, and allow to bubble for 6-7 minutes.

Cook pasta in boiling water for a minute less than directions specify, until still very firm. Drain. Add pasta to the simmering sauce, toss for a minute to coat. Serves four. Top with Pecorino.

MARIO'S BASIC TOMATO SAUCE

- 1/4 cup extra-virgin olive oil
- 1 Spanish onion, chopped 1/4 inch dice
- 4 garlic cloves, peeled and thinly sliced
- 3 tablespoons fresh thyme, or 1 tablespoon dried
- 1/2 medium carrot, finely shredded
- 2 (28-ounce) cans peeled whole tomatoes, crushed by hand and juices reserved
- Salt to taste

In a 3-quart saucepan, heat the olive oil over medium heat. Add the onion and garlic and cook until soft and light golden brown, about 8 to 10 minutes. Add the thyme and carrot and cook 5 minutes more, until the carrot is quite soft. Add the tomatoes and juice and bring to a boil, stirring often. Lower the heat and simmer for 30 minutes until as thick as hot cereal. Season with salt and serve. This sauce holds one week in the refrigerator or up to six months in the freezer. Makes 4 cups.

WHEREAS, following the hearings, this Council did, on September 20, 2006, adopt its Resolution No. 06-87 (the "Resolution of Formation") which established the District, determined the validity of prior proceedings relative to the formation of the District and authorized the levy of a special tax within the District, called an election for December 21, 2006, on the propositions of levying the special tax and establishing an appropriations limit within the District, and ordered the election consolidated with the election at which the proposition of incurring the bonded indebtedness is submitted to the qualified electors within the District;

WHEREAS, following the hearings, this Council did, on September 20, 2006, also adopt its Resolution No. 06-88 (the "Resolution to Incur Bonded Indebtedness") which determined the necessity of incurring the bonded indebtedness in an amount not to exceed $7,000,000 and called an election within the District for December 21, 2006, on the proposition of incurring the bonded indebtedness; and

WHEREAS, on December 21, 2006, in accordance with the Resolution of Formation and the Resolution to Incur Bonded Indebtedness, a consolidated election was held within the District at which the qualified electors approved by more than a two-thirds vote the propositions of levying the special tax, establishing the appropriations limit, and incurring the bonded indebtedness;

NOW THEREFORE, the City Council of the City of West Sacramento DOES ORDAIN, as follows:

1. The above recitals are true and correct and this Council so finds and determines.

2. By the passage of this Ordinance, this Council authorizes and levies a special tax within the District pursuant to Sections 53328 and 53340 of the Act, at the rate and in accordance with the method of apportionment set forth in EXHIBIT A hereto (the "Rate and Method of Apportionment"). The special tax is levied commencing in fiscal year 2006-2007, and in each fiscal year thereafter until the earlier of (a) the date at which the tax is no longer needed for its purposes described in the Resolution of Formation and the Resolution to Incur Bonded Indebtedness, or (b) the fiscal year ending June 30, 2055.

3. The Director of Finance is authorized and directed each fiscal year to determine the special tax to be levied for the next ensuing fiscal year for each parcel of real property within the District, in the manner and as provided in the Rate and Method of Apportionment.

4. Properties or entities of the State, federal or local governments are exempt from the levy of the special tax to the extent set forth in the Rate and Method of Apportionment. In no event shall the special tax be levied on any parcel within the District in excess of the maximum tax specified in the Rate and Method of Apportionment.

5. All of the collections of the special tax shall be used as provided for in the Act and the Resolution of Formation.

6. The special tax shall be collected on the secured real property tax roll in the same manner as ordinary ad valorem taxes are collected. The special tax shall have the same lien priority, and be subject to the same penalties and the same procedure and sale in cases of delinquency as provided for ad valorem taxes. In addition, the provisions of Section 53356.1 of the Act shall apply to delinquent special tax payments. The Director of Finance is authorized and directed to provide all necessary information to the Treasurer-Tax Collector of Yolo County and to otherwise take all actions necessary in order to effect proper billing and collection of the special tax, so that the special tax is levied and collected in sufficient amounts and at times necessary to satisfy the financial obligations of the District in each fiscal year. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Director of Finance may collect one or more installments of the special tax by means of direct billing of the property owners within the District if, in his judgment, such means of collection will reduce the burden of administering the District or is otherwise appropriate in the circumstances. In such event, the special tax will become delinquent if not paid when due as set forth in any such billing to the property owners.

7. If for any reason any portion of this Ordinance is found to be invalid, or if the special tax is found inapplicable to any particular parcel within the District, by a court of competent jurisdiction, the balance of this Ordinance and the application of the special tax to the remaining parcels within the District shall not be affected.

8. This Ordinance shall take effect 30 days after its adoption and, within 15 days after its adoption, the City Clerk shall cause it to be published at least once, with the names of those Council members voting for and against the Ordinance, in a paper of general circulation published and circulated within the City of West Sacramento.

Introduced at a meeting of the City Council of the City of West Sacramento held on January 10, 2007.

PASSED AND ADOPTED at a regular meeting of the City Council of the City of West Sacramento held on February 7, 2007, by the following vote:

AYES: Beers, Johannessen, Kristoff, Villegas, Cabaldon
